

Short Bio

David Egiashvili, Ph.D

Dr. David Egiashvili, an international expert of Land Administration and Land Market Development, is Ph.D. holder in Land Administration. He spent more than 25 years in land market development/land registration field in different capacities, starting from land market/registration policy development in Georgia in the late '90ies and followed by being the founding head of the Public (land) Registry of Georgia in 2004-2006. Reforms implemented during this period in the National Agency of Public Registry was ranked as top reform by Doing Business 2006 conducted by the World Bank and IFC. He has an extensive management experience of the government agency (Public Registry) as well as land governance development projects at UN FAO. For year and a half, he has worked as a VGGT Program Manager leading Multi-Donor Trust Fund projects and liaised with the donor community.

David is also a founder of a real estate consulting company and is currently working as an international consultant for different technical assistance projects focusing on institutional and legal issues, land governance, land Policy, land administration, land tenure, land consolidation, land management and privatization. His work experience covers more than 20 countries under the World Bank, UN FAO, USAID and other donor funded initiatives.